Dear Diary,

This morning Jessie and I went to the Science Museum by MTR. There was an old man who was taking a nap and a young lady was playing video games on the MTR. Jessie and I were chatting softly on the MTR.

After a while, the old man's mobile phone rang. So he took the phone out from his backpack but he forgot to close it. Then the young lady sitting next to him stared at his wallet in the backpack. Unfortunately, we didn't notice that. After that, the young lady stole his wallet. Finally, the police arrested the lady. The old man thanked us.

After this, I learned to be careful of our belongings in public places.
